EASY VICTORY FOR TRINITY

AMERICA'S REPRESENTATIVES BEATEN BY EIGHT LENGTHS.

An Inglorious Defeat on the Thames That Tickled the Leanders-Courtney's Statement.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, July 10 .- Cornell and Trinity Hall started in the fourth heat of the trials for the grand challenge cup early this afternoon. At the half mile Cornell was leading, but Trinity Hall won the race by eight lengths, the Cornell crew being utterly exhausted at the finish. As the Cornell boat crossed the finish line Fennell tumbled from his seat in a dead

The day opened hot and clear, with the wind lighter than yesterday, though still blowing from the Bucks shore and as the Cornell crew on this occasion had the opposite (Berkshire) shore the weather was considered slightly against them. Trinity Hall was first at the starting point and took up the Bucks position. Cornell was slow in taking up position on the Berkshire side. The word "go" was given at 12:32 p. m. and Cornell first caught the water and started with a stroke of forty-six to Trinity's forty-two. Cornell was half a length ahead on turning into the course after passing Regatta island. Then the Cornell runners began to encourage the American crew and, under this stimulus, Cornell, who had dropped to thirty-eight, spurted and increased her lead to a length. Trinity was then splashing slightly. Cornell made the half mile in 2:26; but, passing Frawley Court, Cornell went all to pleces. Freeborn, No. 4 in the Cornell boat, dropped his oar and put his hands to his face. The Cornell crew seemed parfyzed at this. Hall, the stroke of the Cornell crew, seemed not to understand what was interfering with the momentum of the boat and half turned around. By work Trinity Hall was a length ahead. The Cornell crew were so rattled that they rowed like a lot of school boys and Hager, No. 3 in the American boat, dropped his Spellman. The latter instantly received him and as Hager did not try to recover himself Colson, the coxswain, called out sharply, "what are you about 3?" Hager then than it came Freeborn's turn to der matters. He dropped his oar and dindly to recover it. By this time y Hall was seven or eight lengths ahead, rowing a long even stroke and they could plainly be seen laughing to each other. Passing the mile post in 5:22, Fennell's head fell forward and he seemed about to faint. He also dropped his oar and rubbed his forehead. ENCOURAGED BY COLSON.

The shouts of encouragement of little Colson, the Cornell coxswain could be disheard above the din of cheering from the shore where the Cornell men were running along the bank frantically endeavoring to encourage the crew. Fennell recovered and tried to row, but his oar struck the water flat, although it was sometimes in the proper position. Then again the men on the opposite side of the boat seemed unable to lift their oars and were occupied in trying to steady the boat. Hill, who was rowing steadily, looked the picture of despair. Nevertheless, he kept at his work and almost alone seemed to pull the boat. After passing the mile post, Hager, for the second time dropped his oar, but he recovered himself, although he seemed ready to faint again. Dyer, No. 6, and Roe, the bow oar, who, with Hall, had been doing the best work, also began to show signs of exhaustion and began splashing badly. The Trinity Hall crew was then away head and the race was actually over. The rowds were frantic with delight at Cor-I's unfortunate situation, but the Corinued to run along the shore ting all kinds of encouragement to the noralized crew. The Cornell crew, howthan in a boat race. The American specta-tors ashore and affoat were heartbroken at the collapse of the Cornell crew. The grand stand was filled with brightly-dressed American girls and many of them were crying at the finish.

Trinity Hall won the race easily by eight lengths and as the Cornell boat crossed the finish line Fennell tumbled from his seat in a dead faint. The Britishers were wild with delight when Trinity passed Cornell at the delight when Trinity passed Cornell at the three-quarters' post, but words failed to Trinity Hall won and Cornell tailed along t the grand stand. There the Cornell were received with hisses. They pped rowing before they passed the ges, who hoisted the sign. "not rowed." The band then played "God Save the sen." as the crowd cheered itself hoarse Queen," as the crowd cheered itself hoarse and poor Fennell lay as if dead in the bottom of the Cornell boat while his nearest companions splashed water in his face. As the crew pulled to the judges' stand in order to go through the formality of leaving their weights they were all looking like death. About the stand was a crowd of ath. About the stand was a crowd of Leander men in their boats, and one of them said: "I suppose you lost on account of the hard race you had yesterday?" An-other Leander man jeeringly remarked: "Of course you are coming again in 1896." The Cornell men made no reply to these sneers.

AFTER THE RACE. The Cornell men presented a solemn sight as they arrived at the boathouse, where their friends in waiting did not know the result, but there was no necessity for asking the question. The appearance of the crew only too surely gave the answer. Tears stood in Roe's eyes as he stepped out, and the crew were so exhausted that they could scarcely lift their boat from the water. Several members of the Cornell Glee Club tried to arouse the drooping spirits of the Cornell crew, saying: "You have no reason to feel ashamed, you did your best."

on, the Cornell coxswain, deserves credit for the way he kept his head and encouraged the crew. He kept shouting to his men while they were tumbling about, "Steady, boys, steady! Go ahead! You have got them?" The general opinion is that the Cornells were hopelessly overtrained, and that there was no climate or malaria about it. Colson, who acted as spokesman for the Cornell crew, said: "We had a hard race and we were fairly and "Has the crew been overtrained?" Colson

'Mr. Francis's orders are that there ld be no talk on that subject," was On reaching their dressing room half of the Cornell crew lay down on the rough board floor and panted like hounds after a long run. In addition to the regular attendants the members of the Cornell Glee Club, who were present, acted as rubbers and assisted in washing down the crew with cold water. The other Cornell men outlide the dressing room enlivened the proceedings by giving the coilege yell again and again at the full strength of their ungs. In the meantime the large boathouse had been crowded with Americans, and this had a cheering effect on the defeated crew. addition, a number of Englishmen be-nging to Henley called at the Cornell athouse and expressed themselves as ing sorry that the Americans were de-ers of the Leander crew entered for the grand challenge cup, and were among those who have been so bitter against the Amer-icans since Cornell, under the umpire's direction, rowed over the course yesterday when the Leanders failed to start. The Thames crew was heartily cheered as it crossed the line ahead, but the Leanders crossed the line ahead, but the Leanders were received in silence.

Fennell, it appears, was ill when he entered the race to-day, suffering from valuar affection of the heart, which caused a big lump on his left side. According to his version, he caught a crab when the Cornell boat was passing the half mile post and his oar struck him a tremendous blow on his left side, the shock seeming to paralyze his legs. He was able to use his arms, but could not recover with the rest. The great exertion he was making caused him to faint in Freeborn's arms and the terrible struggle the rest of the crew were obliged to make did them up one after another. Fennell tried again and again to do his part, but he fainted three times.

FISHER PITCHES GREAT BALL. omiskey's Men Unable to Locate Him at Any Stage.

Fisher mowed Comiskev's men down yesterday just as he did on Decoration day. They could do absolutely nothing with him, four of their eight hits being "scratches." That they were not shut out is owing to a couple of fluke two-baggers secured in the eighth inning. For four or five innings Johnson pitched good ball, then the leaders began to gradually swell their score, until, in the eighth, they had pounded out six runs with two singles, three two-baggers and two triples. Fisher was as steady as a clock. He gave no bases on balls, hit nobody, had no wild pitches and was a model in every way. He was given errorless support, everybody playing good ball. St. Paul put up a fine game in the field, Marr and Camp having wonderful catches, and HENLEY-ON-THAMES, July 10 .- The an- | O'Rourke and Kraus "circus" stops. Camp had seven put-outs in center, Johnson beover the course yesterday when Leander ing hit much harder than the score indicates. Hogan had a running catch of a short fly to center, and McCarthy and heard on all sides. "They are just like Aus- | Canavan pulled down a ccuple of dangerous-

It was in the fifth inning, when, with one out, Glenalvin on second and McFarland on first, Fisher hit a long fly to Camp. "Glen" ran back until the ball had settled in Camp's hands Then he ran to third, making it easily Camp's throw being seven or eight feet wide of the base. Pickett made the absurd claim that Glenalvin left second before the ball was caught, and abused the umpire for not calling him out, with the result above mentioned. St. Paul's captain was inclined to "bluff" the policeman, but, after a few moments, decided to clear out, which he did inder escort. Had he had as much license to "kick" as did Indianapolis on another of hose first base decisions, there would not have been so much surprise over his action. In the second inning Glenalvin hit a ball that Pickett, Mullane and Johnson all went When the pitcher was told to cover the base he raced with "Glen" for it, and received Pickett's throw after the runner had reached first safely. McDermott called t out, however, amid a storm of hisses and howls of indignation. The man was easily safe, and the decision was simply another of those extraordinary mistakes of the past few days at the ball grounds from which

Indianapolis has suffered.

Hogan's rattling three-bagger along the left foul line and a wild pitch gave the leaders their first run. In the fifth, with one out, Johnson hit Glenalvin and McFarand got a base on balls. Fisher's fly to Camp advanced them, and Hogan sent them in with a single to center. Newell went out from O'Rourke to Mullane. McCarthy hit to the right center fence for a he run in the sixth. The eighth was the sho inning, however. Canavan, McCarthy Motz hit for doubles, Roat for a single Glenalvin and McFarland for triples runs were in, and nobody out. McFarhit, but was held on third to keep the catcher close up. Fisher went out from O'Reurke to Mullane, and Hogan from Kraus to Mullane, McFarland scoring on the latter play. Newell hit safe to center. but was thrown our stealing second. With two out in the eighth, Comiskey's men were saved a shut-out, O'Rourke and rwin scratching out two-baggers. Marr then hit into Motz's hands, the latter making a pretty stop of the lively grounder. The game ended rather suddenly in the ninth. With one out, Camp hit a single, and, as Smith struck out, he started to sterl second, but was nailed by McFarland's good throw. There were two thousand peoole at the grounds. Score A.B. R. H. O. A. Indianapolis. Hogan, cf.... 4 Newell, s.... 6 Canavan, rf.... 5 McCarthy, lf..... 5 Henalvin, 2.... scFarland, c.. ..... A.B. R. rwin, s.... Pickett, 2.... 2 Mullane, 1 ..... 3

Hogan and Buschman Will Race. Martin Hogan, the popular center-fielder of the Indianapolis team, and Buschman, a local athlete and sprinter, will run a race of 100 yeards, at the ball grounds, just before the Milwaukee game next Tuesday. Hogan is pretty fleet, as everybody knows, but hman is said to be a shade faster, and hose on the inside predict a close race with the odds in favor of the latter. The winner will get a fifty-dollar diamond pin, put up by the Indianapolis club. Last Game with St. Paul. This afternoon the St. Paul team will play its last game here, and Jones will be in the box. Cross is going to pitch for Indianapolis, and the leaders want this third game to even up that little string of knockdowns at St. Paul in June. To-morrow and Saturday Minneapolis will play here. Indianapolis has few games left to play at home this month.

Healy Was Their "Ment." DETROIT, July 10 .- The "Tigers" had a hungry look as they came from their dressing rooms this afternoon, and when they saw Healy step into the box, each one cried: "He's my meat!" And the way they went at the Egyptian was a caution. The first "Tiger" that stepped to the plate banged the ball, the next did likewise, and so on all through the game until twenty-nine hits were piled up for a total of fiftyive bases and twenty-three runs. Charles E. Courtney, the coach of the Cornell crew, has furnished the following signed statement: "The result was not anticipated by me. I said last week that the crew, particularly Fennell, were in a condition to row. Had I been a to be at the boathouse this morning F nell, Hager and Dyer would not have started. I consider the health of the young oarsmen of more importance than any boat race. If I had had my say in the final arrangements I would have put my foot down yesterday before the Leander race. I have not seen the crew since Saturday and therefore cannot tell about the stories re-lated concerning the improvement of the since that time. Finally, I can only say that any crew must have been in better shape than ours in order to win."

The concert of the Cornell Glee Club this evening was sparsely attended. There was about seventy-five people present, including part of the crew and only two or three Englishmen, including Secretary Cooper, of the regatta committee.

White, who has been identified with the Cornell crew ever since the latter arrived at Henley, is perfectly well known to the different crews. Yesterday evening he entered a crowded hotel lobby, wearing the Cornell colors. In the lobby were a roup of Leanders, excitedly talking over unfortunate misunderstanding of yesterday. Begg, the Leander coxswain, glanced at Mr. White and then said, evidently for his benefit: "Damn the Americans, anyway. It is just what we might have expected. Were They Drugged?

"Kid" McCoy to Appear. "Kid" McCoy, the young Indiana pugilist who has gained considerable fame recently, will take part in a athletic entertainment to be given at English's Opera House July 20. McCoy was born and raised in Indiapapolis and when he left here a few years ago he was not looked upon as a promising prize fighter. He weighed then 135 pounds, but by careful exercise and training he increased his fighting weight to 158 pounds and his recent fights showed he picked up considerable science along with his weight. A month or so ago he fought Dick O'Brien, the champion middleweight of the East, at Boston for twentyfive rounds, the fight resulting in a draw. Just before that fight McCoy, in two rounds, knocked out Jack Wilkes, the man who fought a seventeen-round draw with Tommy Ryan. The Boston newspapers

She Does Not Intend to Marry, but Will Live in Egypt.

NEW YORK, July 10 .- Mrs. P. T. Barnum came to this city, last night, from Bridgeport, Conn. She denied the rumor that she is soon to become the wife of a wealth Englishman. She reached town early, and about 10 o'clock visited the office of E. H Ludlow & Co., real estate agents, at No. 111 Broadway, to attend to business in reference to the sale of Marina, her Bridgeport home. At the office Mrs. Barnum talked with Albert M. Arnberga, member of the firm. She wants to sell her home and live abroad. She returned to this country from Egypt a month ago and expects to go back there in September.
